

THE FIRST STEAMBOAT

That Ever Assended the Guyan-dotto to Logan C. H.

ARRIVED THERE LAST FRIDAY

And Attracted the Attention of the Whole Country Side—People Who Never Saw a Railroad Train or a Steamboat—A Voyage of Many Perils Finally Successful—Notes on Navigation.

A gentleman who was in the city, from Logan county, yesterday, tells of a most interesting occurrence in that at times turbulent but now quiet place. Logan Court House is on the banks of the Guyandotte river, a famous logging stream about eighty miles from its mouth at Huntington, and as the river is not usually navigable at all, and no railroad until recently within fifty miles, the county seat is almost entirely obscure to the outside world.

The J. T. Hustler is a small side-wheel steamer about the size of the Sam-the-Scurmough which was noticed plying between the island and the city last fall, and has hitherto been noted as the only steamer which ever navigated the Guyandotte, having once on a timber run gone up to Barboursville, the former county seat of Cabell county, twelve miles from its mouth. Last week's rise was a cracker-jack and the Hustler undertook to make the run to Logan Court House on it. Two days of battling with the swift current and drift followed, but finally on Friday morning the Hustler approached the unsuspecting Logan town, and her whistle, which, for noise, outrivals the largest of the Ohio river packets, startled the inhabitants who never having seen a steamer, were at first greatly alarmed. The news spread quickly, however, that a real live steamer was near at hand, and when the Hustler rounded a bend into sight, every man, woman and child almost was on the banks to view the, to them strange craft. Except the men who had guided timber ratts down the river to Huntington once a year, none had ever laid eyes on a boat of greater pretensions than a flat boat. After remaining at Logan a short time, the little steamer left on her down trip with a big cargo and lots of passengers. Though this trip of the Hustler was successful the Guyandotte will hardly soon be plying by other boats.

The Logan county people are feeling the hard times just now. The amount of timber floated down the Guyandotte every spring is immense, but this year the men who own it are unable to sell it for cash, and as a consequence business in that region is done almost entirely on the credit system.

A CRAZY SPECULATOR.

Creates a Sensation of the Minneapolis Board of Trade After the Jump in Sugar Stocks.

MINNEAPOLIS, MINN., March 6.—A scene of the wildest excitement and terror was enacted this afternoon in the rooms of the Commerce and Commission Company on the first floor of the Guaranty Loan Building Company, when attorney B. B. Clay, who has been operating somewhat extensively, became greatly excited and pulled a revolver upon Manager Clarke. It was just as the market was closing and the last report being received. Mr. Clarke was seated at his desk and his assistant, Mr. Littlefield, seated near him. Clay had been trading the market, buying and selling first in one department and then in another and things did not go to suit him. He believed that he was losing heavily.

Just before the market closed sugar went up twelve points, and this seems to be the feather which broke the camel's back, for Clay became suddenly enraged and drawing a loaded revolver rushed up to Manager Clarke and demanded a settlement of the money which he thinks due him from the transaction. Mr. Clarke informed Clay that he was entitled to no money, whereat Clay cocked the gun and went a step nearer Clarke. The latter now became thoroughly frightened, and thinking discretion the better part of valor, told the infuriated man he would give him a check for the $100. Clarke turned to go into the vault where the check book was. Clay followed closely. Clarke suddenly darted into the vault and slammed the door behind him. Clay turned toward Mr. Littlefield and shoved the cocked revolver within six inches of his face. Clay turned and called to a companion to close the doors, but not before the frightened crowd had plenty of time to get out of the way of bullets which were likely to be turned loose. Clay did not offer to shoot at Littlefield and after some little parley left the place and was not seen afterward. The police were notified and are investigating the affair.

Mysterious Murder.

Pittsburgh, Pa., March 6.—Last night August Dixon, a Belgian, was found unconscious on Liberty street. He was taken to the West Penn hospital, where he died a few hours later without having regained consciousness. This evening it was learned that he had been beaten and robbed by a party of tramps at McDonald, Pa., and then placed on a train for this city. Warrants will be issued for the murderers.

The Miners' Conference.

Pittsburgh, Pa., March 6.—The convention of coal miners of the Pittsburgh district here to-day decided to maintain the three-cent rate for mining but not to strike for it at present. The question of a general strike was discouraged by the national officers on account of the prevailing depression.

THE WILSON BILL.

ings on the seigniorage bill, and under that objection it would have to go to the calendar.

Considerable discussion followed in which Senators Allison, Hale, Mendenhall and Stewart took part.

Mr. Barry, of Arkansas, rose to a question of personal privilege. He read the headlines of an article in a New York paper which he characterized as "infamous, without foundation and thoroughly unjust." It was headed "Obstructing Commercial Prosperity," and contained portraits of the senators and asserted that they had joined hands to defeat the Wilson bill. Among them was that of Senator Barry. The Arkansas senator denounced the assertion that he was opposed to the Wilson bill.

He had gone to every member of the finance committee, he said, and had urged and begged the committee to report the Wilson bill as it came from the house.

Mr. McLaurin (Dem., Mississippi), who was one of those named by the article, denied that he was obstructing the passage of the Wilson bill for protection purposes. He had never heard of any coalition between disaffected senators until he read it in a Washington paper. "I am not in favor of the tariff for protection," he declared, "but only for revenue."

Amid the laughter of the senate, Mr. Faulkner, another one of the "obstructionists," arose to a personal privilege. He had not intended to notice the newspaper article, but as his name had been read by Mr. Barry and would appear in the Record, he felt impelled to make an explanation. Some of the items of the Wilson bill, as it came from the house, did not suit his views, and as a Democrat he had gone before the finance committee and made statements in the interests of his people and in accordance with the Chicago platform. He favored a tariff for revenue, and was not in favor of putting any article on the free list, but he would put everything on the dutiable list, not for protection, but for revenue only. He announced, "I am a Democrat, and if you bring that bill in as a Democratic measure it will receive my support."

Mr. Morgan, of Alabama, caused some amusement by falling into line with the other "conspirators," named in the newspaper article. "The senator from West Virginia," said he, "is not guilty as charged, but I want to say that I am not nearly as bad as he, and, therefore, I am not guilty." (Laughter.)

Mr. Allison, of Iowa, referring to Mr. Barry's statement that he had not asked any member of the finance committee, to favor an increase of duty on any article, humorously said that he would vouch for the truth of Mr. Barry's statement as far as he (Allison) was concerned.

Mr. Barry had never asked to favor an increase on any article. (Laughter.) Becoming more serious Mr. Allison said, "Has it come to this in the history of tariff legislation that the senate is obliged to take a bill as it comes from our co-ordinate branch without the dotting of an 'i' or the crossing of an 'a'?"

"Speaking as a senator on this floor I, for one, intend to have an opportunity to consider this bill in every paragraph and in every item."

"We may as well lay aside the idea that this important bill is to be railroaded through the senate."

After a speech by Senator Teller on the reference of the seigniorage bill the senate adjourned.

IN THE HOUSE.

General Sikes Denounces the Administration's Pension Policy.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 6.—The debate on the pension appropriation bill was continued to-day in the house, the feature of the day being General Sikes' speech criticising the action of Commissioner Lochran. An agreement was reached whereby the debate on the bill will close at 3 o'clock to-morrow afternoon. Before the debate began to-day, the resolution for the investigation of Judge Jenkins' writ of injunction against the Northern Pacific railroad was taken up and passed.

During the pension debate Mr. Sikes, (Dem., New York), took the floor and had read an extract from Mr. Cleveland's letter of acceptance of the presidential nomination, saying that the debt due to the defenders of the union should be ungrudgingly discharged. Upon that pledge to the soldiers of the Democratic party they stood and won the political victory. The commissioner had characterized the act of December 23, 1893, in which Congress decided a pension to be a "vested right," as "inaccurate and inappropriate." This was not a decorous way of treating an act of Congress and his superior officer should have returned it to him with the admonition to treat Congress with more respect. (Republican applause.) Besides, he continued, Commissioner Lochran was as defective in his law as in his manner. (Renewed Republican applause.) He had only to go to his law dictionary to find what was a right and what was a vested right. A right was a well-founded claim. A vested right, a right to present enjoyment. The pension was a vested right conferred by law. Yet an army of 12,000 men had been deprived of that enjoyment by an official of the government.

Actor Coghlan III.

Pittsburgh, Pa., March 6.—Charles F. Coghlan, the English actor, who was billed to appear at the Duquesne theatre in this city, this week, in his new play of "Disengaged," is ill at Mercy hospital, and the theatre was closed. Dr. Montgomery, who has been attending Mr. Coghlan, says he is suffering from nervous prostration, overwork and worry.

Republicans Beat the Record.

BURLINGTON, VT., March 6.—The Republicans carried Burlington city election to-day by the largest majority ever given any candidate.

Baltimore Live Stock Market.

UNION STOCK YARD, BALTIMORE, }
MONDAY, March 5, 1894.
Swine.—The receipts are quite heavy, running up to 11,255 head, some 3,100 head in excess of last week's numbers. The market is not active and prices are about the lowest since last week. Fair to best western hogs sell at $5.25 to $5.50 per 100 lbs., the latter for select western. Near-by hogs—those from Pennsylvania, Virginia and Maryland—sell at $4.75 to $5.00 per 100 lbs. gross. Rough hogs and pigs $4.50 to $4.75 per 100 lbs. gross. Receipts 11,255 head.

Sheep and Lambs.—Trade in sheep and lambs is extremely dull. The former sell at $3.75 and a few extra $4.00 per lb. gross, and lambs at $3.50 and a few extra at $4.00 per lb. gross.

Facts Worth Knowing.

In all diseases of the nasal mucous membrane the remedy used must be non-irritating. Nothing satisfactory can be accomplished with douches, snuffs, powders or astringents, because they are irritating, do not thoroughly reach the affected surfaces and should be abandoned as worse than failures. A multitude of persons who had for years borne all the worry and pain that catarrh can inflict testify to radical and permanent cures wrought by Ely's Cream Balm. Your druggist has it.

All Sorts of Local News and Gossip from the Glass City.

Charles Dunlap, a son of Filmore Dunlap, a coal miner who lives on the side of the hill in the Fourth ward, fell over the balusters in the second story of the Central school building to the stone floor below yesterday afternoon, striking on his head. Dr. J. W. Cooper was at once summoned and found that no bones were broken, but he could not determine the extent of his injuries. The boy was removed to his home and received all the attention possible. The pain in his head is very severe and internal injury is feared, but there were no new developments yesterday evening.

The coal operators and representatives of the miners in this city and vicinity will meet with others at Bridgeport to-day, where it is expected the details of the 51-cent a ton scale will be fixed up so that all the mines will start up. At present some of them are working and some are not. The object of the meeting to-day is to finally adjust the whole matter.

It is intended especially for coughs, colds, croup and whooping cough, and is a favorite wherever known.
